DEATH SAVES

I have a fierce soft spot for anyone working under extreme pressure (miners, divers, laborers), and I will aggressively offer them unsolicited safety inspections.

PERSONALITY TRAITS

Preservation: Lives are irreplaceable and sacred; gold, treasure, and stone can always be mined again.

IDEALS

Everything I build is secretly inspired by trying to keep Vara safe; I still carry a piece of the first thermal under-suit I made for her as a good luck charm.

BONDS

I carry an immense weight of survivor's guilt; I secretly believe my childhood weakness killed my father, and I will risk my own life recklessly to make up for it.

The Current Quest: Seeking the Forge of Heaven
Brokkur has left Windford. He is traveling the world of Abryrim as an adventurer, testing his defensive gadgets in the harshest environments. But his ultimate goal lies back in his homeland.
He wants to return to Windford, bypass Lord Grizfane's "unbreachable" vault defenses, and recover his father's remains. To do that, he needs to build a device capable of withstand the crushing pressure of the flooded vaults. He needs Dark Diamond Ore, and he needs to learn the secrets of the Forge of Heaven to shape it into the ultimate protective suit.
He travels with your group not just as a comrade, but as their guardian angel. He watches over them with a hyper-vigilant, protective eye, constantly tinkering, constantly upgrading, ensuring that this time, everyone comes home alive.
